

Mystery Photo - May 2018

Looks like something twirled by a majorette doesn't it?

This is the real photo before I used Photoshop to remove the one feature which I knew would give it away.

It is one of the original Burlington Mall light standards, still in the east parking lot, between Hudson's Bay and the Canadian Tire store.

There were no guesses but it was pretty impossible after the image was altered.

Cont'd.....

Here's another photo, taken at night –

Photos and suggestion from Alan Harrington

16 June 2018